Finance Practices

The Banking & Finance practice represents corporate borrowers, private equity sponsors, financial institutions and direct lenders in the full range of complex financing transactions.

One of a very select group of firms that have both highly rated borrower/sponsor and lender/arranger practices.

Recognized as one of the world's premier leveraged and investment grade acquisition finance practices.

Our Capital Markets practice represents issuers and underwriters on securities offerings.

One of very few firms that regularly advise private equity sponsors, underwriters and corporate issuers on their most significant debt and equity transactions.

The Structured Finance & Derivatives practice has a long track record of developing cutting-edge structures at the forefront of the marketplace.

Privacy & Cybersecurity

Weil's Privacy & Cybersecurity group partners with clients to develop holistic strategies for mitigating business and legal risks associated with the aggregation, use, dissemination, and storage of information and data. In the event of an incident involving that data, our team addresses any regulatory inquiries or investigations, and defends against shareholder, consumer, employee and other litigation.

This is a cross-practice discipline drawing on best-in-class corporate governance, IP and technology practices, among others.

Restructuring

100 lawyers globally

Chief debtors' counsel in six of the seven largest U.S. bankruptcy filings in history.

Our Restructuring practice has been described as the "gold standard" and as a "restructuring powerhouse."

Invented much of what has become standard practice in restructuring. For more than 50 years, our Restructuring practice has played a pivotal role in defining this field by offering creative, practical, and thoughtful solutions for its clients.

Recognized as one of the world's best cross-border insolvency and restructuring practices.

Unlike most other large firms, we have broad-based experience that includes representing debtors, creditors, committees, equity sponsors, potential purchasers of troubled companies or their distressed assets, and handling substantial litigation.

Litigation

350 lawyers globally

Multidisciplinary, trial-ready approach

Help clients manage risk and reach business-oriented resolutions across jurisdictions and geographies

Complex Commercial Litigation is the largest practice in the Department and offers clients nationwide representation in high-stakes disputes in U.S. state and federal courts and European courts, and before domestic and international arbitral tribunals. Broad focus on litigating and trying cases involving fraud, breach of contract, IP, unfair competition, and other claims.

The Securities Litigation practice is a dedicated team of nearly 70 attorneys that focuses exclusively on litigating and trying securities, derivative, and breach of fiduciary duty and M&A litigation, overseeing internal and government investigations, defending financial products litigation, and counseling on corporate governance issues.

Weil's Patent Litigation practice handles high-stakes IP disputes on a national basis for leading companies in the technology, life sciences and chemical fields. Our work spans District Court patent infringement trials, Patent Office proceedings, ITC investigations and Federal Circuit appeals, and strategic counseling. Many of our team members have technical and scientific backgrounds.

Weil's highly regarded Intellectual Property/Media practice has set the standard for litigating complex copyright, trademark, music licensing, advertising, and related IP issues arising in the media space over the past 40 years. Focus includes disputes between content distributors and providers, secondary copyright and trademark infringement claims, false advertising litigation, and copyright music licensing trial proceedings and counseling.

Our Antitrust Litigation practice offers a deep team comprised of former senior leaders at the FTC and class action and cartel experts. In addition to advising global companies on securing antitrust approval for complex transactions, we also represent plaintiffs and defendants in private antitrust lawsuits and government cartel investigations involving collusion, restraint of trade, and monopolization claims.

The Employment Litigation practice provides companies and their senior executives, boards, and HR staff with wide-ranging employment and labor law advice. Areas of expertise include litigating complex class actions involving discrimination, wage/hour and ERISA claims, defending and trying restrictive covenants disputes, investigating employee misconduct, and tackling labor issues arising in reorganizations and mergers.

Clients call on our Product Liability & Mass Tort practice for "bet-the-company" engagements such as international product recalls, consumer fraud class actions and MDL proceedings, mass tort and personal injury litigation, and environmental cases, as well as attendant governance, crisis counseling, and restructuring issues.

The White Collar Defense, Regulatory and Investigations practice handles internal and governmental investigations, regulatory proceedings, and related litigation for global companies, as well as their boards, directors and senior executives, and also develops comprehensive compliance programs. Areas of focus include investigations involving alleged securities and accounting fraud, healthcare fraud, and violations of the FCPA and the False Claims Act. Many in this group are former DOJ officials and federal prosecutors.

The International Arbitration practice counsels clients in connection with high-stakes and cutting-edge international arbitrations in venues around the world, as well as political advocacy, international law issues, and dispute resolution strategy.

Weil's Appellate practice advocates on behalf of clients in cases involving all of the firm's substantive areas of expertise before the U.S. Supreme Court, every federal circuit court, and a range of state appellate courts. We also provide strategic counseling and advice during the trial court phase of our clients disputes. Our team includes former clerks to U.S. Supreme Court justices and a former Assistant to the U.S. Solicitor General
